Location: Northern Arizona
Builder: John Schultz, Schultz Development
Photography: Alexander Vertikoff

Our home sweet home.

We end this special presentation with a sunset shot of builder John Schultz of Schultz Development, and his lovely wife Denise — and of course their handsome horses, Dutch Warmblood Outlaw (right) and Quarter Horse Stetson (left). As we close the day at their ranch in Northern Arizona, one can't help but feel privileged to live in this beautiful state. Beyond its natural beauty: majestic mountains, open plains, and lush desert landscape, Arizona offers some of the most dramatic temperature variables to enjoy year-round. After all, where else in this country can you have coffee poolside in the morning and be skiing at 9200 ft by noon? Apropos are the closing lyrics of Irving Berlin's song: "God bless America, my home sweet home." His words are a reminder to all of us to cherish the moments and count our blessings for the time and love we share amongst family and friends.

ABOUT Schultz Development:
Founded in 1987, Schultz Development has been a cornerstone of the luxury building industry. Headed by John Schultz, this seasoned team is known for their ability to execute sophisticated and technically challenging homes. They are responsible for creating some of the most magnificent estates in the Valley. Thirty-three years of fine-tuning, combined with a recruitment of only the finest artisans, craftsmen, and carpenters, has made this company one of the most sought-after luxury homebuilders around. (See also pps. 22-23 and 124-129.)